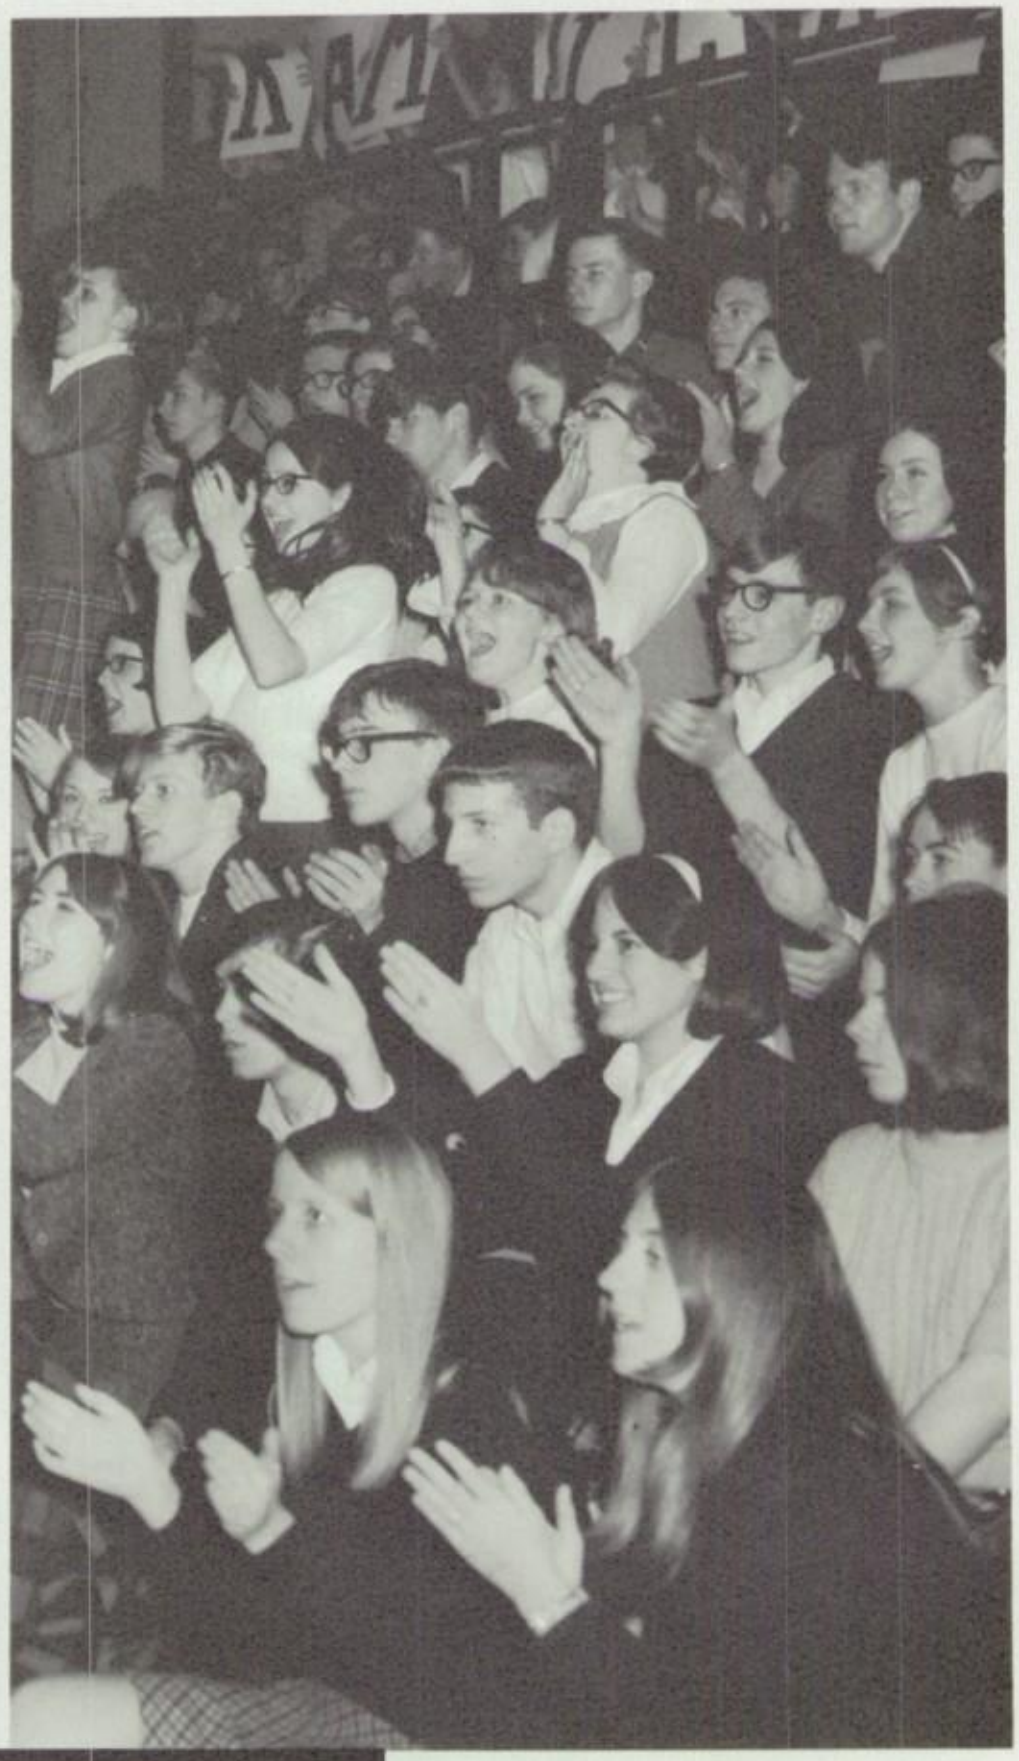
High School life is a mixture of agony and ecstasy

Agony is eighty degree weather in September or May . . .
missing the school bus . . .
coming to school when it's still dark . . .
an eighth hour detention . . .
forty cent lunches . . .
being trapped in the cafeteria . . .
no ice cream or potato chips at lunchtime . . .
a broken P.A. speaker in your third hour class . . .
a drafty classroom . . .
and buckets cluttering the halls.
Ecstasy is cheering at a game . . .
an assembly schedule . . .
participating in extra curricular activities . . .
a half day schedule before a holiday . . .
a counselor's pass . . .
getting your class ring . . .
a ten day Easter vacation . . .
repaired door handles in the lavatory . . .
finding your mittens in the lost and found . . .
and making friends with a Senior.
We, the staff of the 1967 Rambler, offer this record of the agonies and ecstasies of a year at Fraser High School.



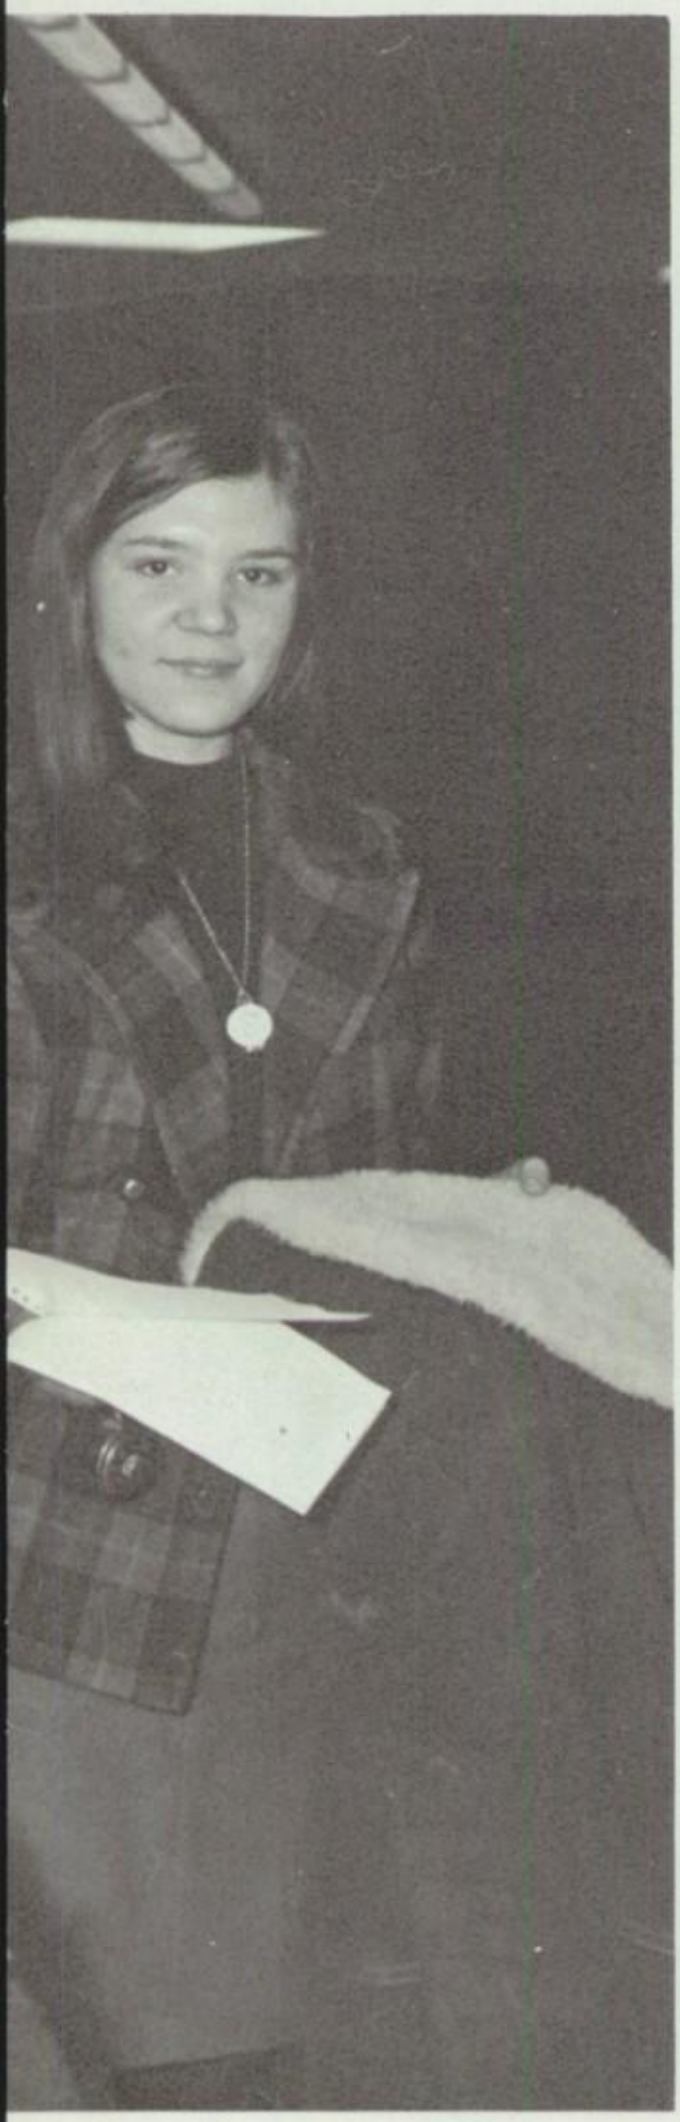
INTRODUCTION

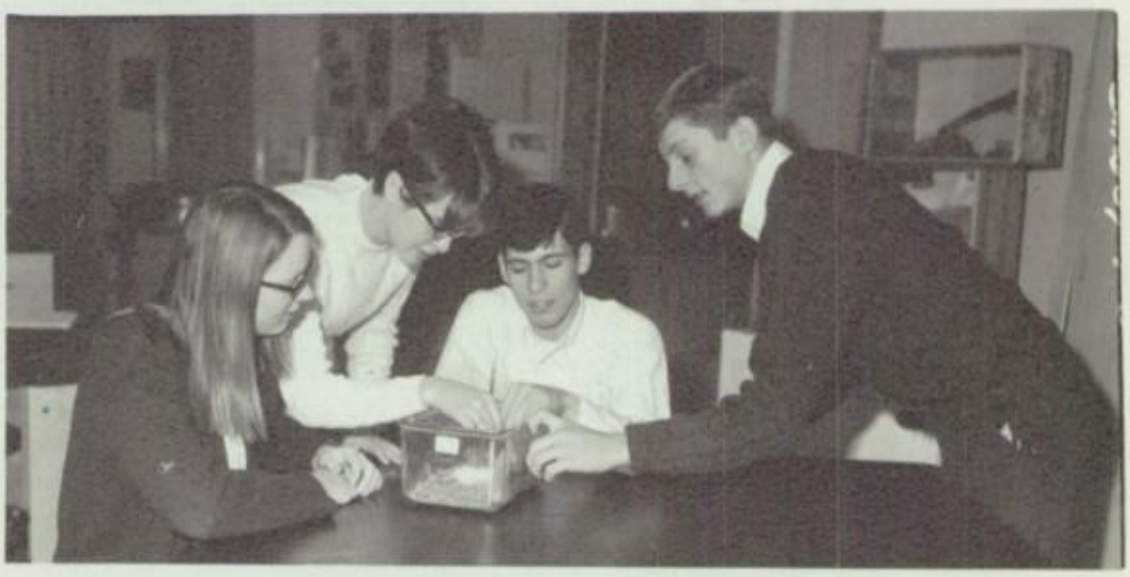
Agony is rewarded

Agony is homework on week ends . . .
Monday morning . . .
noise in the library. . .
running out of ink during an impromptu . . .
typing a speed test on stencil . . .
doing homework 'til midnight . . .
spilling paint on your new clothes . . .
dropping a cover slip . . .
picking out a seam . . .
hands wet with paper mache . . .
hour long lectures . . .
a wrong note at a concert . . .
a page long translation . . .
detailed reading of the newspaper . . .
and final exams.
Ecstasy is making the Honor Roll . . .
finishing your research paper . . .
a Regional Industrial Arts award . . .
seeing your sketch in the hall . . .
winning the Detroit News writing contest . . .
eating Spanish food . . .
passing the Physical Fitness Test . . .
a gold key . . .
a double grade A on a theme . . .
typing 75 words per minute . . .
a good natured teacher . . .
seeing amoeba through a microscope . . .
making a perfect casserole . . .
an interesting assembly . . .
and getting all A's.

Above far right: Shaping metal into perfect curves is a trick that seems to offer Pauline Kubera little challenge. Center far right: Janet Coats, Becky Neal, Frank Messana, and Greg Buss's experiment shows that man is not the only animal studied in biology. Lower far right: Supplementary help from Mr. Peterson increased Donna Dowe's knowledge of the new concepts introduced in advanced algebra.

when knowledge is attained





The agony of defeat is surpassed

Proud of his new uniform, Alex Kujawski makes sure it is ready before leaving for Hockeyland.

Agony is a practice til 6:00 . . .
an eligibility slip . . .
a poor spectator turnout . . .
a muddy uniform . . .
running in five inches of snow . . .
your fifth personal foul . . .
a sprained ankle . . .
a sudden death overtime . . .
a called third strike . . .
a slippery track . . .
dropping the baton . . .
the sun glaring in your eyes . . .
the last game of the year for Seniors . . .
and a defeat.

Ecstasy is making the All Bi-County team . . .
a pat on the back from your coach . . .
completing a fifty yard pass . . .
winning the Homecoming game . . .
a basket from half-court . . .
a bid in the playoffs . . .
getting a goal on a breakaway . . .
a goal with only three seconds left to play . . .
pinning a player five pounds heavier than yourself . . .
a grand slam homerun . . .
winning a match 6-0, 6-0 . . .
breaking the tape across the finish line . . .

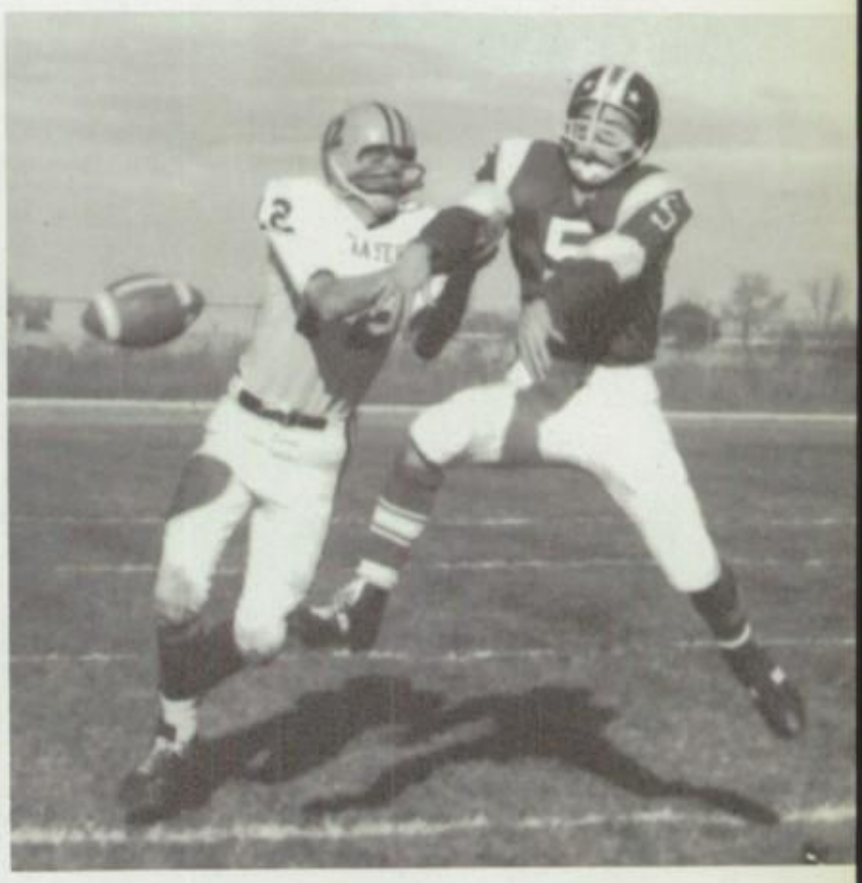
only by the ecstasy of victory

A long stretch is necessary for Phil Law to tag the Utica base runner out at first.



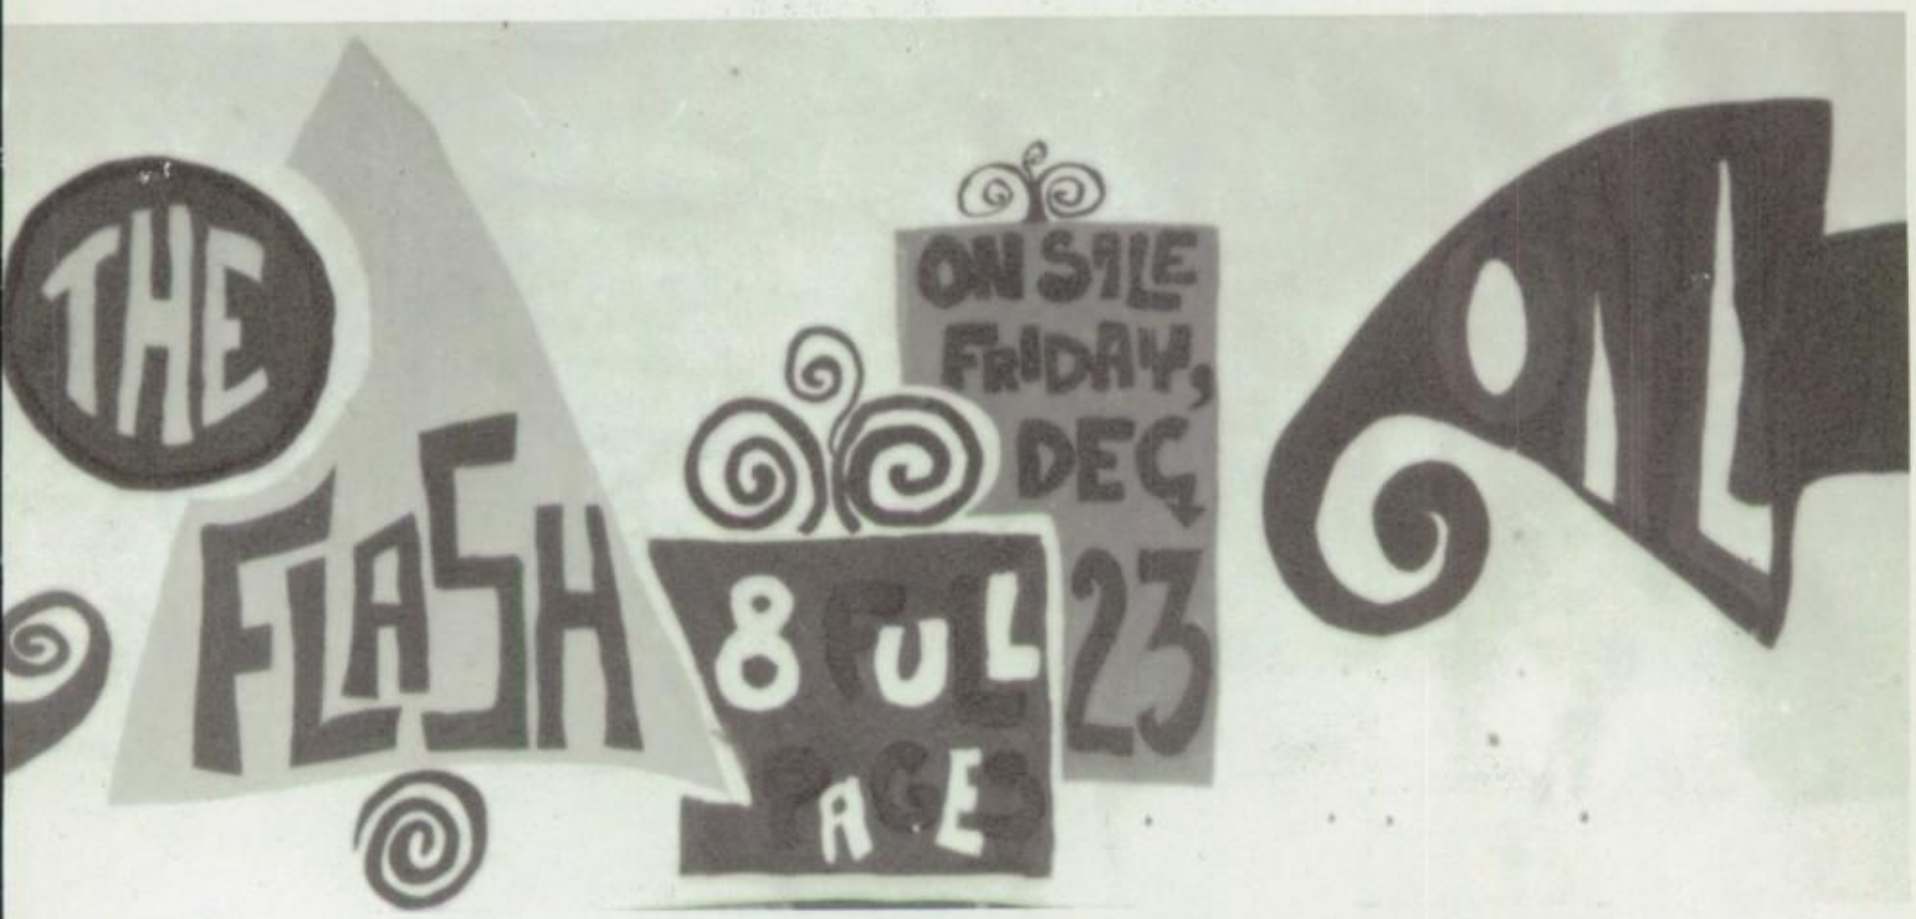
Nick Katranis does his best to prevent an opposing end from successfully receiving a pass.

Poised and ready, catcher Osa Ann Smouter and the umpire await the next Fraser pitch.

Ecstasy abounds in student activities

Symbolizing the forthcoming victory over the Lincoln Abes, enthusiastic Fraser High School fans "strung up" the Abes' quarterback.

Above: Journalism students not only produce a great paper, but attractive signs to advertise it. Right: Sophomores Chris Andrews, Carol Collins, Laurel Parnell, and George Roland view the door decorated by the seventh hour Home Ec class as an entry in the Christmas contest sponsored by the Freshman Art Club.



Agony is a dance with no band . . .
coming back to school for a meeting at 7:30 . . .
play practice on week ends . . .
carrying a carton of candy bars . . .
a heat wave on the day of a ski trip . . .
husking corn for a Homecoming float . . .
pleading with a stubborn donkey . . .
losing the pep jug . . .
staying after school til 5:00 . . .
and everyone's fun being spoiled by a few.
Ecstasy is a pep rally . . .
new cheerleading uniforms . . .
high school spirit . . .
your name in "The Flash" . . .
selling out at a bake sale . . .
visiting Washington D.C. for the first time . . .
taking a curtain call . . .
winning the float competition . . .
National Honor Society membership . . .
and companionship with good friends.

Commencement is ecstasy at its peak

Susan Everett
Co-Valedictorian

Marilynn Spencer
Co-Valedictorian

Devon B. Lamb
Salutatorian

Agony is lack of respect from underclassmen . . .
filling out too many applications . . .
taking entrance exams . . .
waiting for a letter of acceptance . . .
expenses for senior obligations . . .
losing to the faculty . . .
a rejection from your favorite school . . .
graduation rehersal . . .
and the thought of leaving your friends.
Ecstasy is being the oldest in the school . . .
dressing sloppy for a day . . .
receiving your letter of acceptance . . .
ranking in the top twenty . . .
skip day . . .
prom tickets free of charge . . .
the Senior Banquet . . .
waiving final exams second semester . . .
the All-Night Party . . . and Commencement exercises.

The acceptance of a diploma automatically opens a new world to the graduating senior, but what he makes of it depends on himself.

The Fraser Board of Education consists of seven members, of which the superintendent is in executive charge. The job of the Board is far from being easy. Each year the enrollment of Fraser public schools increases. Schools must be built, policies must be established, and plans have to be made in advance for upcoming problems. These are only a few of the difficult problems and duties which confront this representative body. Through hard work, with honest concern for all Fraser students and taxpayers, the Board strives to accomplish its main goal – a better education for the youth of Fraser. In June, members see the product of their endeavors. These eager young adults have completed their journey through the Fraser School System and to the Board of Education, commencement is their congratulations.

It is difficult to run a school system, but rewarding in its execution

Just as an institution cannot function without a government, a high school cannot function without an administration. Rules and order are a necessity in any body, and Fraser High School is no exception. Despite some insincere opinions, no student would be happy in a high school without order. The firm hand of an experienced and interested administration guarantees a better education.

Fraser High School is fortunate to have three capable men in this important capacity, Mr. Stanley L. Schook, Jr., Mr. Robert Hernbroth, and Mr. John Brockschmidt. The students, faculty, and taxpayers of Fraser are indebted to these men for their excellent services.

English is more than just grammar

The academic area of English involves all levels of students at Fraser High School, as four years are required for graduation. To meet the varied interests of Fraser's students, the English curriculum is divided into three levels, English A, B, and C, in which particular aspects of English are stressed, according to level. In addition to the regular English courses, this department offers Speech, in which students gain valuable experience in learning to communicate orally, and Journalism, which publishes the school newspaper, "The Flash".

in action

Science, the ultimate basis of today's world, introduces students to the art of asking sound questions and forming valuable, logical solutions. One begins such learning in one of the various biology courses and furthers his skills and thinking processes in the more advanced chemistry, advanced biology and physics classes. For the science-minded student, Fraser High School opens its door to exploratory education so that he may be well prepared for future post-high school studies.

Science student, Diana Adams, seems ready for work as she tries to focus her microscope on a prepared slide.

Math's many marvels are explored

In addition to teaching basic mathematical operations and fundamentals, the world of numbers disciplines the mind and stimulates and encourages logic and clear thinking. The advanced world of the twentieth century requires such thinking. To comply with these demands, Fraser High School provides a broad choice of mathematical courses ranging from general math to advanced trigonometry and algebra classes. No matter what the course, the department concentrates on preparing individuals for the world outside the high school environment.

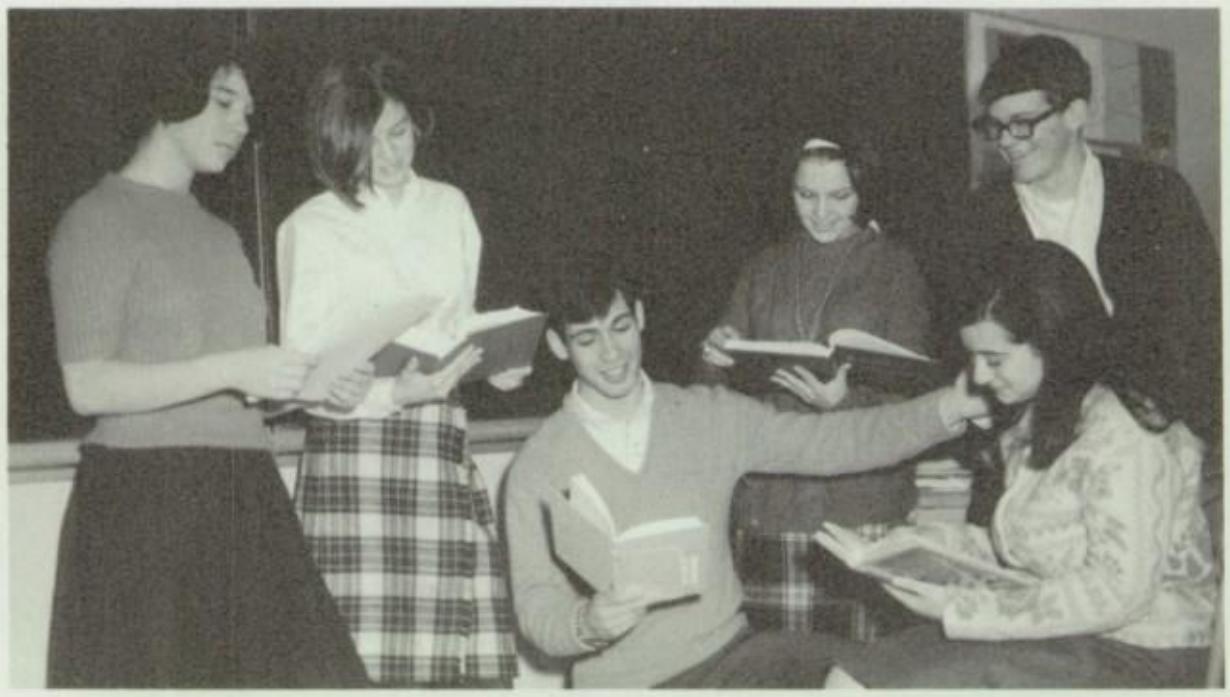
Linguists develop a second tongue

Foreign Language classes at Fraser High School not only teach how to read, write, and speak a language, but also acquaint students with the customs, history, and the culture of the country. In order to help students speak more fluently, plays and dialogues are presented. These classes also become festive through expressive, as well as colorful, bulletin boards, projects, and skits.

French, Spanish, and Latin classes are offered at Fraser this year. Just recently French and Spanish III were instituted to encourage more extensive study in a given language.



Above: Foreign languages seem to become more realistic for Maribeth Rudgers, Osa Smouter, Frank Messana, Corey Lockridge, Dave Mastervich, and Marie Messana as they present a skit in Mrs. Lowe's French II class. Progressive Humanities class is the newest addition to Fraser's academic curriculum

Seniors Bob Moats and Paul Petrucci perform a magic show as part of a Humanities project.

It is rare that a high school can offer an advanced class with such a promising future as Fraser's new Humanities class. For the first time in Fraser High School's history, a group of specialized teachers have joined forces to offer the Senior students an opportunity to explore art, music, literature, and history in correlating harmony. Different time periods are examined and individual projects are done to add a personal touch to the class.

Group field trips took place and students were encouraged to take such trips individually. More than just a temporary academic success, the Humanities program has much in store for next year's Seniors.

Fraser High School enables students to experience a wide expanse of areas in the field of social studies. Sociology, psychology, geography, American government, economics, world history and American history comprise the curriculum in this department. The stress, in these courses, is on concepts rather than the memorization of "bare" facts, for ideas provide students with a basis for forming an intelligent, knowledgeable picture of today's world.

prepare students for the business world

During a timed writing all eyes are on the keys, as even a few seconds of lost time can result in a slow speed.

Able fingers and a quick mind are but a few of the qualities a commercial student must have. In Business Education each individual should meet certain standards, these being patience, competence, knowledge, and comprehension.

The commercial department offers a variety of classes that will prepare a student for the challenges of the business world. For the college bound student, Personal Typing and Shorthand will benefit the busy college life. Rewards are plentiful to the student with business courses as they prepare for their future plans and occupations.

A meaningful art abstract, mixed with a creative collage, and topped by an imaginative painting are just a few of the ingredients used to arrive at the finished product, Fraser High's award winning art displays. A completed piece is more than just an accomplishment, it is a fragment of the person who created it. It reflects their own ideas concerning art and creativity. The progressive art class permits each student to learn basic fundamentals and to expand them on the road to becoming a talented artist.

as well as enjoyable

For students in the various shop classes, creativity, the ability to follow instructions, and skill are important factors affecting success in this academic area. Shop courses vary from wood and metal shop to Auto Mechanics and Electricity. Through these classes, students are able to become acquainted with shop materials, their use, and the technical aspects of this field. For the student planning to pursue some aspect of Industrial Arts as a career, FHS provides excellent materials and instructors to give students a worthwhile and meaningful background in order to prepare them for more advanced training.

The pride and ecstasy with which one looks at his shop project, no matter how small, is well worth the agonizing hours of hard work and planning that went into the job. FHS students begin to learn, through shop, that it means to create and finish something of value and use. Thus they fulfill the purpose of Industrial Arts classes at Fraser High School.

Prospective homemakers gain skill

Although new household gadgets and devices are constantly being invented to ease the housewife's chore, proper techniques and skills are still necessary in order to keep abreast in today's busy world. In Fraser High School's Home Economics classes, girls become accomplished at preparing delectable dishes, and practicing the basic fundamentals of sewing. Home Economics is not only important in developing and using the present to its fullest, but also is essential in making plans for the future.

Agility comes through physical fitness

This girls' Physical Education class is busy practicing basic volleyball techniques.

In order to prepare for a busy future, as well as the hustle and bustle of the outside world, it is necessary to instill in each individual the great importance of physical fitness. Knowing how to relax with exercises and loosen tensions, as well as stiff muscles, is a talent rather than a chore. Fraser High's all-important Physical Education classes provide each student with nearly every imaginable sport for their enjoyment and recreation.

Band gains further recognition

1967 was a year of rebuilding for the Fraser High School Band. Compensating the loss of approximately thirty seniors from last year's band, a greater number of freshmen entered to take their place. These new players not only spent the year learning to better master their instrument, but spent it developing the pride and respect that goes with membership in this fine musical organization. Much more work than usual was required to attain a rating of all I's at the District Band and Orchestra Festival, making this the fifth consecutive year for such an honor. The future looks bright for the band, however, because of the excellent program now being operated in the junior high school. From now on the band will be gaining experienced freshmen, with a competent musical background, ready to step into the shoes of graduating seniors.

Vocal music excels under excellent direction

The choral department of Fraser High School is a busy one. It is divided into three organizations, the A Capella Choir, Mixed Chorus, and Girls' Glee Club. Along with these choirs, The Fraser Singers, a small, select group of talented vocalists rounds out the vocal music department.

Besides participating in the annual Christmas and Spring Concerts, the A Capella Choir, having the highest rank in the department, performs at such school functions as Commencement and National Honor Society inductions, and such outside functions as a Lenten Service at Central Methodist Church in Detroit. In addition to these performances, the A Capella Choir participates in a festival each year and has brought many fine ratings home to Fraser.

Janice French, Lori Lucas, Ruth Gregg, Kathy Ritter, Denise Doane, Joy Phillips, and Janine Bitterburg watch Mr. Simons for proper direction.

Knowledge is unimportant unless coupled with

Mrs. Jean Wojcikewicz

A word of consolation, a bit of sound advice, or even a look into the future, with the guidance of an educated and experienced person are comforts as well as necessities. Fraser High's counselors seem to put aside their own personal problems and take time to help the students solve theirs. Helping students over some of the rough times of high school and assisting them in making decisions about their future is the most important job of a counselor. It is obvious that a high school could not run smoothly without the aid of its morale-boosting counselors.

understanding

Use of the library is an essential part of the development and furtherance of each student's education. The key to success lies in its many books. For the willing student, the library is an excellent place to study, and with the aid of our librarians, an agonizing assignment or bit of research can be completed with little trouble. Having the ideas and philosophies of many hundreds of authors at our disposal is a gift and a privilege that the students at FHS use to the fullest extent.

Mrs. Joanna Ray

With the help of Mr. Wong, Brenda Van Beylen and backseater, Lori Morgan, practice the art of proper parallel parking. Such a drill practiced now will prevent many minor parking accidents in the future.

Driver Education prepares drivers for driving

With today's high accident statistics, learning the skill of driving is an immeasurably important prerequisite for drivers. In order to prepare young adults for the fast-paced traffic of highways and freeways, Driver Education classes gain experience on open roads as well as perform special driving maneuvers. Knowing how to handle the car, especially in adverse driving conditions and understanding such complicated things as insurance policies or techniques of changing a tire are only a fraction of Fraser's Driver Education course. Above all, Fraser students are taught the basic philosophy behind driving, that is, "Driving is a privilege, not a right."

ACTIVITIES

Annual staff works hard

Yearbook plans are discussed by the section heads: Mollie Wilson, Activities, Bob Roberts, Athletics, Dennis Faleris, Academics, Charlene Prieur, Academics, Bob Moats, Photography, Tom Berlin, Business Manager, Sue Engel, Seniors, Janet Coats, Underclassmen, and Don Faleris, Athletics.

There seems to be some disagreement between co-section heads Dennis Faleris and Charlene Prieur as they discuss a possible headline idea.

Bob Moats adjusts his photography equipment as a picture deadline approaches.

to make the Rambler a success

Janet Coats issues a payment receipt to Laurel Parnell, reserving her a copy of the 1967 Rambler.

Through seemingly endless hours of tiresome but rewarding work, the staff of the 1967 Rambler struggled to meet nearing deadlines. It often seemed as if it were a hopeless effort, for as the end of one section neared, the beginning of another one did too. Under the direction of Mr. Ochander, Mrs. Mossberg, and Miss Whittaker, they diligently wrote copy, identified people, and layed out pages designed to make this book the best ever.

But, as in every story, all good things must come to an end. Following tradition, the Rambler was finished shortly before the final deadline, making this story not only good, but one that will be remembered for years to come. As for the end, sighs of relief and satisfaction can be heard from the staff members, but they are mixed with a note of nostalgia as a difficult but sometimes quite enjoyable task draws to a close.

Liz Costa, Carol Stair, Sherry Coats, and Tom Bartlett look on as Sue Metzger and Shirley Horetski present copy for proofreading.

Honor Society credits character

The Fraser High School Chapter of the National Honor Society is an entirely honorary organization composed of students selected on the basis of scholastic ability, effort, leadership, character and service to the high school. Qualifying scholars, both juniors and seniors, must have maintained a "B" average through high school and be conconsidered for recommendation by faculty members. New initiates are inducted twice a year, in the spring for juniors and in the fall for seniors.

Activities for the year include the annual Honor's Banquet, recognizing students with a high scholastic average. To finance this banquet, the members sell paperback books each week in the cafeteria.

National Honor Society members Liz Costa, Sue Metzger, and Don Faleris wheel their portable book rack to the cafeteria for another sale.

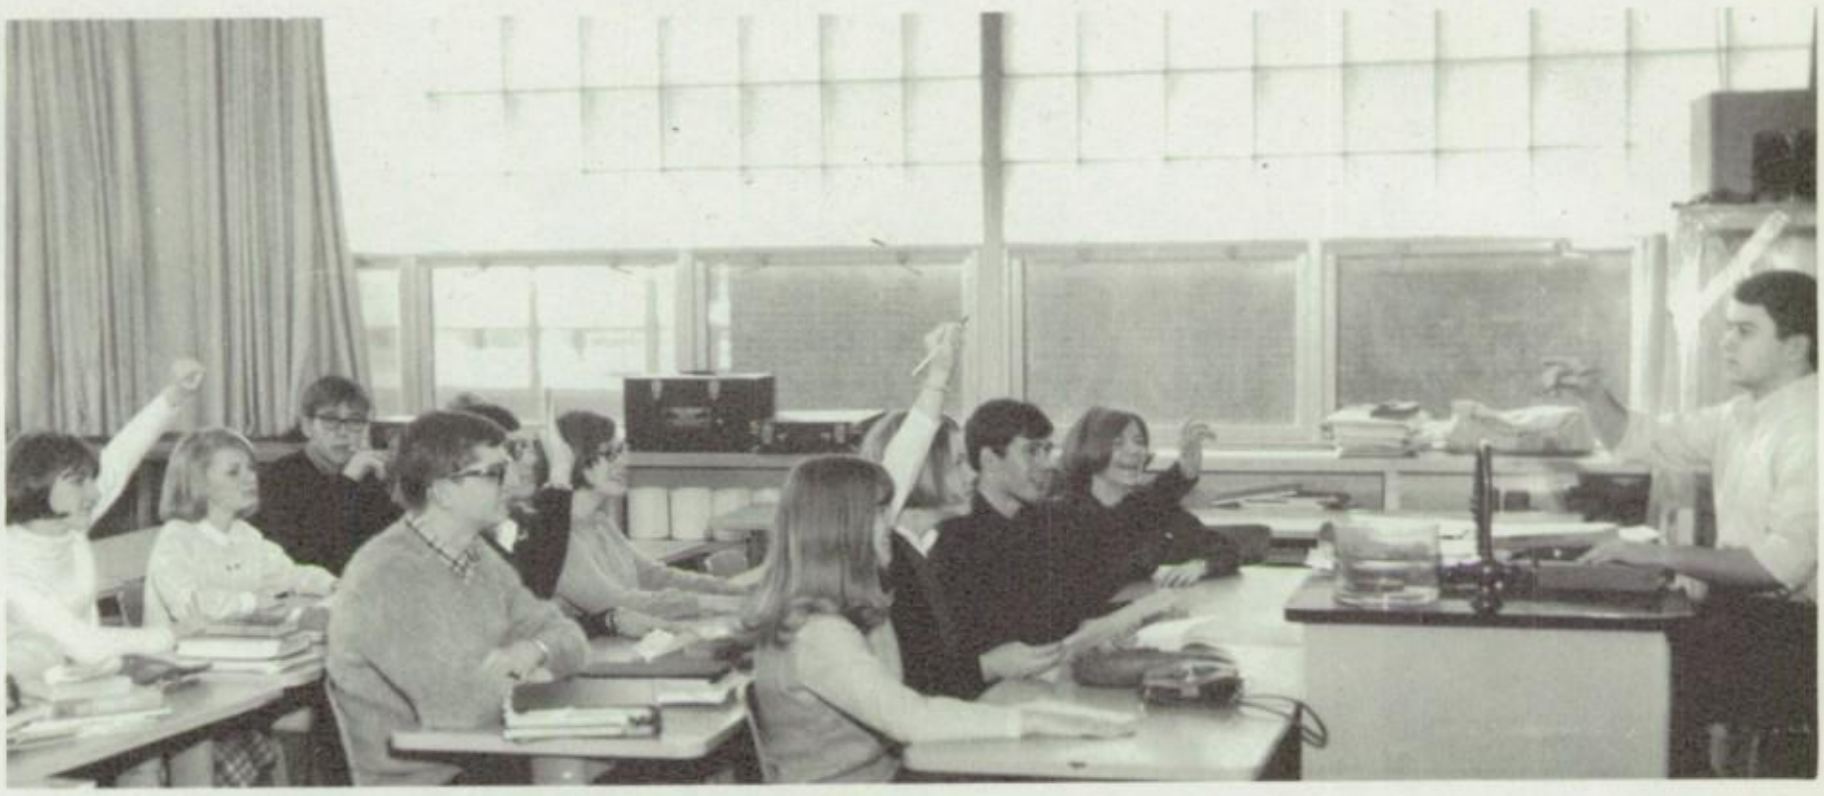
Student council backs school improvement



Possible solutions are considered by Nancy Konnie, Audrey Steffan, Keith Roy, Tom Berlin, Dennis Faleris, Sue Blohm, Bonnie Moorman, Devon Lamb, Frank Messana, and Kathy Ritter for a problem posed by Bill Farmer.

Student Council president Bill Farmer presents his vice president, Dave Mastervich, a certificate commending his attendance at a summer leadership camp as Mr. Schook and Mr. Clay proudly look on.

The purpose of the Student Council is not only to maintain a student voice in the government of the high school, but also to aid in the development of responsible, trustworthy citizens.

The Student Council has been rejuvenated this past year. Under the direction of Mr. Charles Clay, the council meets three days a week during lunch hour to plan the major activities of the organization. The Homecoming and Second Annual Spring Thing were completely made possible through the planning and unifying spirit of the committees that undertook these projects. The Student Council is supported by profits from the Coca-Cola machine in the cafeteria.

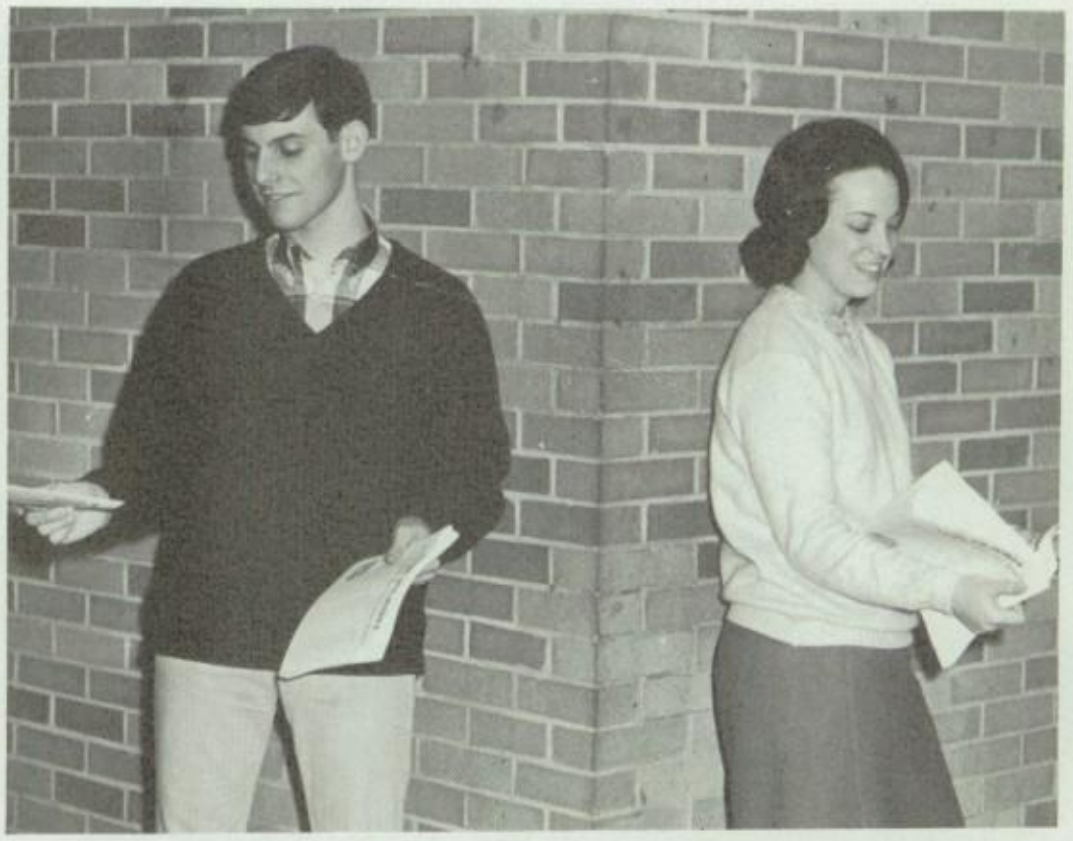
In an effort to find and solve current problems in and around the high school, the Student Council has set high standards of behavior for the entire student body to follow.

Journalistic endeavors

Journalism students comprise the staff of the Fraser High School newspaper, THE FLASH, and spend much extra time after school in order to see that this publication is produced every three weeks.

The aims of THE FLASH are primarily to promote school unity and interest by informing the students, while at the same time fostering development in journalistic skills for the staff.

Both THE STYLUS, an annual school magazine, and THE FLASH have proven highly successful at Fraser High. Under the guidance of Mrs. Arlene Eddy, sponsor, all students concerned, staff and patronizers become acquainted with the field of journalism.



Don Faleris and Sue Metzger sell copies of the Flash between classes.

are awarded recognition

Club officers Tom Fleury, Charlene Prieur, Don Faleris, and Sue Metzger discuss the merits of the latest Flash paste-up.

Membership in the International Quill and Scroll Society is a purely honorary position. Members are selected from outstanding journalists of the Flash staff on the basis of scholastic effort, ability, and interest. New initiates were honored this year at a candlelight ceremony followed by an afternoon luncheon. The Quill and Scroll Society sponsored several dances to finance new equipment and a much needed, larger drafting table for the Publications Room.

Social Studies clubs increase interest in American government and foreign cultures

Political Science Club members: Peg Smith, Pam Hull, Janet Hormel, Pat Kurta, Peggy Hamm, Sue Engel, Sherry Coats, Marilynn Spencer, Kathy Farmer, Devon Lamb, Kathy Neal, Pam DeSutter, Marie Messana, Diane Shifflett, Pam Bucks, Edna Voght, Liz Costa, Margaret Schepke, Ann Tolley, Annegret Hauenschild, Don Faleris, Tom Fleury, Mr. Kirschner, sponsor, Ken Whitener, Dennis Faleris, Annette Montmann, Lisa Lowe, Gloria Smith, and Mr. Miller, sponsor.

Newly formed this year, the Political Science Club has become one of the most active clubs in the school. Its main objective is to promote interest in political activities from the local to the national level, not to mention Fraser High politics. The club sold candy to finance field trips to Lansing and Detroit.

The Foreign Exchange Club of FHS attempts to increase the understanding of teens from all over the world with those of America. They sponsored two German students this year and organized a Bi-Country exchange day for all exchange students in this area.

This year the Model U.N. represented Guinea in the annual Model United Nations Meeting at University of Detroit. Discussion of topics ranging from race relations to nuclear proliferation were conducted by high school students from the Detroit area.

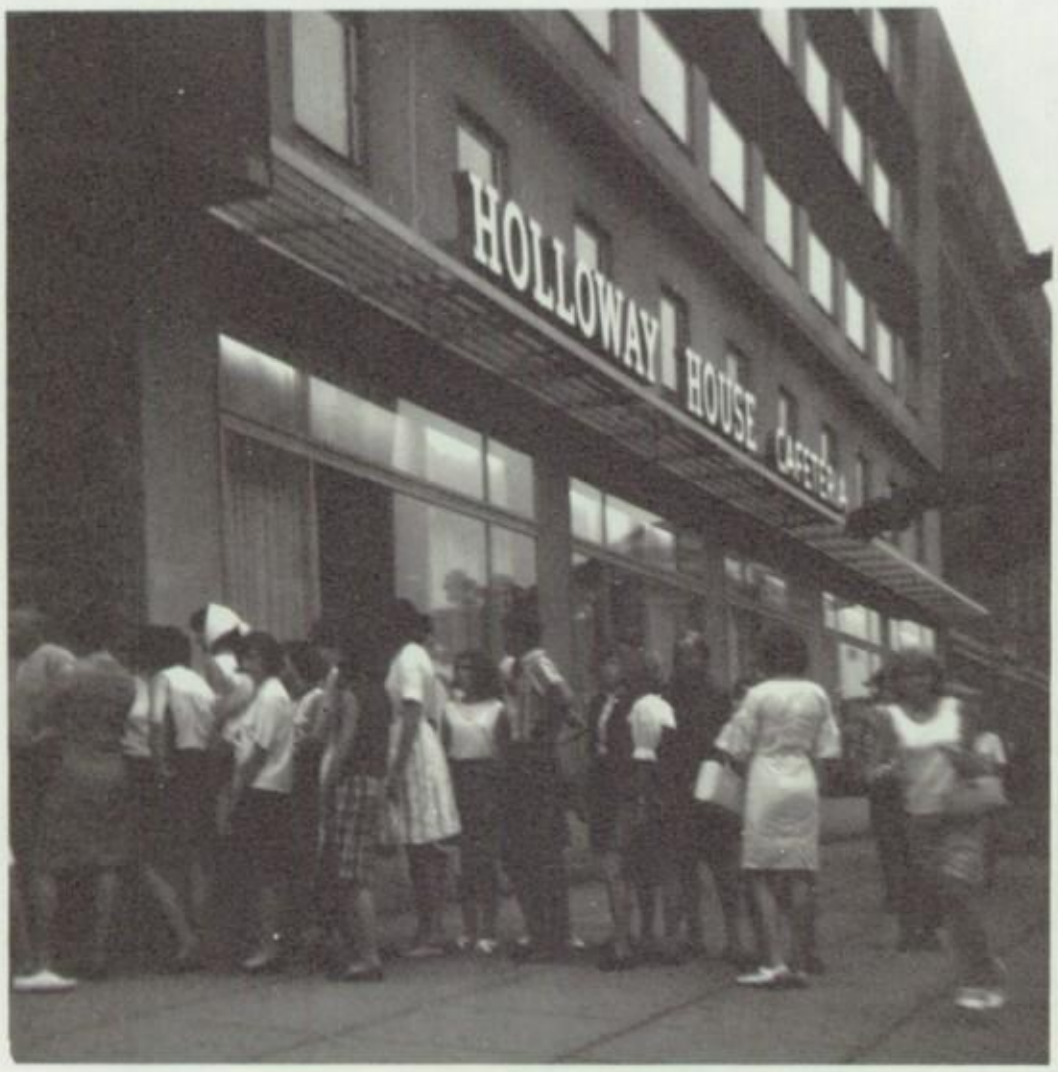
Exchange students from Ecuador, Finland, and Chile were among the many that visited FHS on Bi-County Exchange Student Day.

Model U.N. members Curt Weaver, Keith Roy, Mr. Zogas, sponsor, Ken Leonards, Debbie Pompo, and Wendy Everett discuss plans for their upcoming trip to the University of Detroit.

Travel Club again visits Washington D.C.

Caren Corbin, Kathy Buss, Mary Lou Ackerman, Mary Sadowski, Sue Frosch, and Jill Skubick rest from the day's activities on a Washington corner.

An authentic Civil War cannon was among the many historic sites visited by the club.



Early morning breakfasts brought everyone together to make plans for the remainder of the day.

All new juniors are required to enroll in an American History class during the third year of their high school career. The Travel Club was formulated to increase the juniors' interest in points of historic value and significance prior to taking the history course in school.

Enthusiastic reports from both the students participating in the club and those parents who go along as chaperones seem to establish that the trip to Washington D.C. has proved to be a huge success.

This year the Travel Club sold chocolate candy bars, designed for FHS, to alleviate some of the cost of the trip for each member.

Professional clubs encourage vocational plans

Fraser students this year were given the opportunity to participate in the teaching program. Teacher Cadettes worked in seven elementary schools and in the high school with the objective of learning the teaching profession through actual participation in the operation of a classroom. Under the guidance of trained faculty members, the girls learned how to prepare lesson plans and to handle students in the classroom. Under the direction of Mrs. Martha Stone, the club has many interesting plans for next year.

The Future Nurses Club was designed with the intent of helping prospective nurses pursue their career in the field of medicine. To stimulate this interest, many film strips were shown, keynoted by lectures given by professionals in this area. Field trips to various open houses of hospitals also added to the club's agenda.

Sharon Neault lectures to a ninth grade science class as part of her work in the Future Teachers of America Club.

Literary appeal is stimulated by discussion

Debate Club members Susan Everett, Becky Phipps, Linda Grabner, Mrs. Gleason, sponsor, Cheri Butkus, and Denise Petty look over notes for an upcoming contest.

The Great Books Club, entering its second year, gives students an opportunity to discuss and become familiar with great literature. The members first read the planned novel on their own, and then discuss their ideas as a group. Through discussions, questions, and panels, each member is able to form his own opinions concerning the book.

For the student who enjoys quick thinking, clear logic, and keen competition, Fraser High offers the Debate Club. Composed of those students who wish to develop the skill of public speaking and persuasion, the club provides invaluable practice in organized arguing.

Girls and boys

Girl's Basketball Team: Cheryl Fraser, Diane Werkley, Nancy Brogdon, Mary Anthony, Sandy Bard, Brenda Harmon, Sharon Damm, Gail Michel, and Jill Skubick.

Good sportsmanship and teamwork are fostered by the Girls' Athletic Association. Girls in grades nine through twelve learn to enjoy and appreciate organized sports and games in this club. Intramural activities such as volleyball, basketball and bowling are scheduled by the club officers, and proper techniques and rules are taught. A Mother-Daughter Banquet is held each spring to recognize those girls who have earned awards during the year. This year the club sponsored their first Christmas dance. It was another successful accomplishment for the G.A.A. and will become an annual event.

share interest in sports

"F" Club members Chuck Stremersch and Greg Charles fulfill their duties as gate guards by checking Dave Mastervich's pass.

The "F" Club is an organization of those boys who show an interest in improving the athletic program at FHS, and have earned a varsity letter from participation in one of the major sports at Fraser: football, basketball, baseball, track, tennis, wrestling, cross country, and hockey. This year the "F" Club sold coke and popcorn at all the home athletic events and hot dogs and hot chocolate during the football season. Lettermen determine all rules and regulations pertaining to the earning and wearing of varsity sweaters and jackets. The highlight of the year is the Athletic Banquet held in the spring.

Foreign interests are furthered by language clubs

The French Club is composed of students who are taking, or have taken, French. These students study and observe French customs and cultures through slides and movies of actual French cities and countryside. Correlation between the classroom French and practical French is one of this club's main objectives.

The goal of the Spanish Club is to promote a better understanding of the Spanish speaking countries through an active participation in their culture. This year's club sold decals of the school emblem to finance their field trips to a Spanish restaurant and to a Tijuana Brass concert.

The Latin Club was founded with the objective of acquainting students with a deeper understanding of ancient Rome and Roman customs. Each year an annual Slave Day helps to finance the "Founding of Rome" Banquet, a highlight not only of ancient Rome, but of the FHS Latin Club.

Teamwork is the key to Art Club success

The many colorful posters, advertising anything from "Music Man Coming Soon" to "Buy the Flash", that decorate the halls of FHS are made by the Art Clubs. This year there are two clubs, one for grades ten through twelve and one for the ninth grade. Both clubs handle publicity for school functions. The Senior division won first place in the car competition in the Homecoming parade for their clever construction. The ninth grade club sponsored the door decoration contest during the Christmas season.

Research and investigation are encouraged

Fraser's Science Club is a branch of the Michigan Junior Academy of Arts and Letters. This chapter was formed to encourage students to experiment in both the science and arts and then draw relationships between the two. One of the many goals of the Science Club is to bring about a deeper interest in Science. The club learns by doing, as all members are engaged in some type of research.

Fraser High's lab assistants are invaluable in their assistance to the science teachers. They assist in the preparation of experiments in all areas of the science department.

Ancient arts remain popular

Jerry Harper, Joe Gennari, and Mr. Vaara, sponsor, watch a match between Ken Leonards and Bob Buttery at a regular Chess Club meeting after school.

The Chess Club was formed to establish a weekly meeting time for those students interested in the age-old game of chess. Its purpose is not only to stimulate an interest in the game, but also to create an understanding of the techniques of the logical and purposeful thinking in the game.

The newest addition to our extra-curricular activities is the Drama Club. Formed early in January, it already has a crowded agenda. Members of this club are not only taught the art of emoting personal feelings, but also the behind-the-scenes activities of a stage production. They are taught stage building and construction, make-up application, and costuming. Two movies were staged by the membership this year, using the techniques that they had learned.

Education includes practical experience

Co-op members: Bonnie Broyles, Bill Contrera, Pete Demura, Joe Eger, Bonnie Brackett, Michele Wieckowski, Micky Wittenmyer, Betty Holob, Darlene Martin, Karen Watson, Fran Maratta, Dorothy Merciez, Vickie Olah, Lisa May, Gary Tisch, Keith Kartje, Jerry King, Carole Matthews, June Torregrossa, Carole Thompson, Sandy Schroeder, Sandy Mitchell, Margaret Denk, Deanna Martin, Bev Albrecht, Jane Montkahaus, Robert Schneider, Jim Salamon, Roger Greer, Paul DeFauw, Tom Revers, Gary Seifert, Lynford Redlawski, Mike Wilson, Chuck Accivatti, Dave Milner, Alvin Norris, Ken Logan, Dennis Richardson, Stuart Jackson, John Skowronek, Mike Miller, Jim Petrykowski, Sam Di Guiseppe, and Dennis VandeSteene.

"Earn as you learn" can best be applied to the Cooperative Education department at FHS. The Co-op Club gives senior students the opportunity to attend school in the morning and work in the afternoon in business and retail, office practice, or trade and industry. The morning at school is devoted to learning the theory of their chosen vocation and the afternoon to applying this theory. The Co-op Club also sponsors the retail counter in the cafeteria, which sells school supplies.

Mike Overby and Brian Fennell use their sales pitch on Ron Warunek and Rich Gennari in hopes of a big sale.

School benefits from students' services

Mr. Ochander, A. V. sponsor, shows Jerry Kleino, Tom Barnard, Greg Charles, Alan Kendall, and Ernie Drake how to set up a projector for a slide presentation.

The Library Club is composed of those students who serve as library assistants sometime during the day. The objective of this club is to stimulate a deeper appreciation of the library and its many services to the students of FHS. Student librarians are responsible for the systematic filing, orderly shelving, and accurate checking of most books in the library.

To meet the present demand for visual aids in the classroom, Fraser High has developed its Audio-Visual Department. Students working as AV assistants are given the responsibility for the operation, maintenance, and scheduling of equipment. These boys also learn to repair damaged facilities and to keep the Audio-Visual department running smoothly.

Juniors and Seniors unite in another successful

The Sycamore family and their friends stand in awe as Princess Olga Katrina makes her entrance into their home.

A warm feeling of success and accomplishment fills each member of a play cast after the final performance. This year the cast of the Junior-Senior Play was sponsored by two new faculty members, Mr. Stanley Zogas and Mr. Denis Latkowski. The play, "You Can't Take It With You", gave students the opportunity to perform before a crowd and provided them with an enriching experience at the same time.

Mr. Henderson looks a little apprehensive as Paul and Penny Sycamore try to pursuade him to stay for dinner.

Even though the weather was brisk, it couldn't dampen the spirits of the crowd which gathered to help celebrate the annual Fraser High School Homecoming.

Highlighting the halftime ceremonies were the crowning of our beautiful queen, Linda Sheppard, and the announcement of the winning float, the seniors' "Cage Those Abes".

Our team's success over the Warren Lincoln Abes helped add to the gay mood, which extended into the evening for the homecoming dance. The "Gay Nineties" theme, the holiday mood, and the large attendance helped to make the evening a success.

Above: Proudly representing the Senior class, as well as the whole school, Linda Sheppard was chosen Homecoming Queen for 1966-1967. Below: Breaking a school record with their self-propelled float, the Senior class won the competition for the second consecutive year.

Ski Club climbs to new heights

Fraser High's largest and most popular club is the Ski Club. Through membership students are instructed in skiing methods and techniques, safety skills, and the latest in ski fashion. Trips to Pine Knob and Mts. Grampian, Holly, and Christie offered lessons for the beginners and intermediate and advanced hills for the more seasoned skiier. The weather was more cooperative than ever and the club enjoyed many hours of fun. This year officers were elected and a Fraser High School Ski Patch was ordered for all members of the club.

Larry Hall discovers that coming up the hill is just as hard as going down.

Harriers place fourth in Bi-County

Fraser's league-leading cross-country team lost its Bi-County title this year. The team's win-loss record was fair, but stiffer competition in the league cost them several meets. Under the direction of Mr. Ray Allen, the F.H.S. cross-country team placed fourth in the Bi-County standings. Dave Mastervich was one of this year's outstanding players, placing first in every dual meet. However, a heavy snowfall on the day of the Bi-County meet resulted in only an eighth place for Dave. With Dave and many other young runners returning next year, the prospects of the '68 team look extremely bright.

Fraser's Varsity football team started big and finished big with a 7-0 non-league victory over L'Anse Creuse and a 29-0 rout over another non-league opponent, Clintondale. However, in between the two victories, the Ramblers could manage only one more tally, a 28-14 homecoming victory over Lincoln for Fraser's only league win.

The lone win in league competition, 5 heartbreaking losses, 3 of which were very close, and a hard-fought 12-12 tie with Lakeshore left the Ramblers at the bottom of the tough Bi-County league. However, the dismal league outcome was overshadowed by the impressive pummeling of Clintondale's Dragons in the season's final game. The Ramblers closed off the supposed potent Dragon attack and scored every conceivable way, including Fraser's first field goal, a 31-yarder by Randy Walker, in chalking up the victory and giving a thrilling preview of next year's Rambler squad.

JV, Frosh enjoy success

A 2-5 win-loss record by this year's Junior Varsity squad was overshadowed by Fraser's finest Freshman football team as the Frosh finished with a perfect 5-0-1 season record. The J.V. team did provide thrills and plenty of valuable experience for future varsity starters while their younger counterparts also provided a winning effort as well as excitement. Fraser's future in football promises to be a good one with a solid Junior Varsity and a tremendous Frosh team.

Bi-County Season

"So near, yet so far." These words, spoken by Coach Lusk, accurately describe the 1967 Rambler varsity basketball team. The boys got off to a good start with a 6-0 record and ended the season in third place in the Bi-County. Game scores were, for the most part, extremely close. For example, in the Lakeview battle, with only 1:40 left to play, the tie was broken, with victory hopes shattered for Fraser. Four successive losses were then followed by a short winning streak, but nonetheless, championship remained just around the corner.

The loss of such key players as Pat Connolly, the only team member to make the All Bi-County team this year, will be harmful, but the team has high potential.

Co-Captain Pat Connolly crashes through the victory hoop with the enthusiasm and efficiency that gave him the highest point average on the team.

This year's Junior Varsity and Freshmen teams provided excitement and entertainment for all who followed their games. Despite a disappointing record, team spirit and unity provided a valuable experience for the Frosh players. The J. V. record, on the other hand, was more satisfying. "Best team I've had in my four years at Fraser," was the comment Coach Fifer made concerning his boys. Their record clearly shows that this was indeed a successful year for the Jay Vee squad.

Exact and sportsmanship like conduct, backed by skill and a good number of experienced matmen returning from last year's squad, helped to make the wrestling team a success in this the second year of his existence at F.H.S. Weight training and going without meals all day before a match were only small inconveniences when compared with the satisfying feeling of success.

Rich Glube and Rich Rossol, under the direction of Coach Lightheart, proved to be an important part of the team, as is shown by their nearly flawless win-loss records. With many outstanding wrestlers returning to next year's squad, the prospects for continued success seem good indeed.

Rambler netmen smash their way to another successful season

The pleasure of winning a tough tennis match was an experience which our Ramblers knew very well this past season. Due to the fact that Coach Theodore Striewski has stressed agility as well as perfect form to his squad, much polish has been gained by our netmen.

The fuzzball squad for the '67 season will prove to be a promising one, even though the loss of last year's seniors handicapped the experience of the team. The hard work of other members of the team this past season will help to serve as the necessary spark and skill for Rambler victories in the future.

Although they had a less than average season, the spirit, enthusiasm, and determination of the Fraser High School track team remained strong. Throughout the year few people realized the time and effort put forth by the track squad as they practiced in order to achieve accuracy and precision of timing.

The agony of defeat and the ecstasy of victory were felt by the track men. New records were strived for and obtained, and with the aid of Coaches Miller and Fahner, the team is confident of success next season.

Victory gained by the Rambler varsity baseball squad has been a well earned and much deserved commodity this past season. Much diligent practice during the season has molded our team into a well-coordinated body, itching for a championship.

Coach Allen shares the high spirit and eager anticipation of the players concerning this year's team, because only one player was lost last year due to graduation. This year's squad, therefore, is experienced and can look forward to bringing tremendous success to the Fraser High School baseball team in 1967.

The Varsity cheerleaders present the basketball team to the spectators with a rousing introduction cheer.

Cheerleaders earn superior ratings

Varsity cheerleadrs, Nancy Neel, Captain, Diane Badke, Mary Sadowski, Mary Lou Ackerman, Judy Albright, and Debbie Pompo, perform a pyramid.

A unique formation is practiced by Junior Varsity cheerleaders Lynda Stein, Charlene Champine, Paulette Berthiaume, Kathy Buss, Roxanne Couretas, Osa Ann Smouter, and Wendy Everett.

Freshmen cheerleaders, Amy Rounds, Beth McCormick, Kathy Ritter, Susie Goodwin, Toni Hall, and Joan Badke appear to have learned a lot during their first year.

This year's cheerleaders gave a tremendous boost to school spirit both at games and pep rallies. Cheerleading was divided into three groups, the Varsity, Junior Varsity, and Freshmen squads. The pep and vivacity of the girls was personified by the attractive, new uniforms of the Varsity squad.

The hard work put forth by all the girls and their sponsor, Miss Haueter, was rewarded when they participated, along with twenty-five other schools, in a Cheerleading Clinic at Cousino High School: The Varsity squad received a second place rating in the "Best Over-all Squad" competition, and a first in the "Victory Cheer" contest. The J.V. girls brought home a first place "Over-all" rating. Fraser High School was indeed proud of its cheerleaders.

Girls' 27 game winning streak is snapped

After a phenomenal winning streak of twenty-seven straight victories, the girls' softball team fell to defeat by Avondale, by a score of 13-9.

The winningest Fraser team in school history succeeded in beating all comers up until their Avondale encounter, with impressive and decisive leads. Considering the awesome 29-1 record achieved over the past four years, it is little wonder why the hope of a successful season in girls' softball for '67 is so prominent among softball fans at Fraser High.

Right: Sharon Riggen races to home plate, scoring another run for Fraser. Lower right: Devon Lamb connects for another solid base hit.

Seniors have both unpleasant and memorable moments

Feelings of concern are apparent on the faces of Linda Sheppard and Carol Gittings as they study in the library.

Anxiety accompanies senior participants in school activities

As graduation becomes a reality for the members of the class of 1967, they complete their high school careers and pursue the future.

Their past four years have been both pleasant and "trying". Homecomings, proms, athletic events, school plays, and other enjoyable events have provided many memorable moments. Recollections of tedious hours of study, dateless Saturday nights, monotonous schedules, and other bad times will also be among the graduate's thoughts.

In short, the agonies and ecstasies of high school life become memories while those of the future are encountered.

MODERN YEARBOOK Company

A finished Rambler is ecstasy after agony

Co-Editors for the 1967 Rambler, Sue Metzger, Carol Stair, and Sherry Coats, each perform some of the little tasks necessary to make their book a successful one.

This is the 1967 Rambler. It is an attempt to create for you, the reader, a useful and helpful memory book of the past school year. Many, many hours of diligent work and strenuous effort went into its production. We, the staff, hope that it will serve as a reminder of the activities, the classes, and especially the friendships that have existed this year. Now that the pictures have all been printed, cropped, and pasted, the copy written and typed, and deadlines met, the staff can look back upon this year as a satisfying one. Not only did we improve the quality of the book, but we have also added one "extra" that pinpoints the Rambler as a unique belonging of Fraser High School — the school emblem embossed on the cover. A creation of one of our own students, it personifies the character and intiative of FHS that is captured in this book.
To those who helped make this annual possible, we offer our sincere gratitude. Special thank yous go to Mr. Ochander, Mrs. Mossburg, and Miss Whittaker, our advisors, Mr. and Mrs. Suprunowicz, of Modern Yearbook Company, Craine Studios, for their excellent pictures, the Macomb Daily, for its assistance in the athletic section, and to our artists, Janice Koppin and Debi Nelson. Without these invaluable helpers, this annual would not be the success that it is.
